COLLEGIAL COLLABORATION

“Collaborating on Writing” by W.L. Phillips, C.A. Sweet, and H.R. Blythe from the American Association of University Professors Academe Online. This article provides a rationale for writing with others as well as practical advice for doing so. Audience: Faculty in all disciplines

“Potential Pitfalls in Collabo-Writing” from the American Association of University Professors Academe Online. This follow-up to Collaborating on Writing provides a short list of problems that can occur in the process. Audience: Faculty in all disciplines

“Librarian Orientation for Professors: Give a Pitch, Not a Tour” by C. Tillman. This article, published in the College & Research Libraries News, provides suggestions for developing collegial relationships with other college faculty; however, many of the recommendations also apply to counselors and others who work in student service areas. Audience: Librarians, Counselors

“Join the Club: Promoting Information Literacy in Online Student Academic Organizations” by R. Miller. This article, published in the College & Research Libraries News, describes innovative ways for librarians to interact virtually with student organization faculty advisors and members. Audience: Librarians, Counselors