The Valencia Office of Information Technology (OIT) team proposes to store Institutional Research data reports on the cloud. This support will enable OIT to make needed infrastructure enhancements at the College. Storing IR data reports on the cloud will ensure these reports are properly archived and accessible, while current storage space is limited and accessibility limited. Funding will support up to $50,000 for professional services of a $54,674 project to establish cloud-hosting services on Microsoft Azure. There are ongoing annual costs to utilize the cloud hosting services. The Year 1 match costs and subsequent annual costs for the cloud hosting will be covered by OIT using their operational funds, as indicated by John Slot who approved these match costs on 8/30/17.	$50,000	Yes

This piece will premiere at the 2019 Valencia College Spring Dance Concert. Grant funds will support an artist in-residency for Francie Huber, an award-winning principal dancer with the Paul Taylor Dance Company for 14 years, and a teacher of modern dance and Taylor workshops for the past 25 years. This piece was selected for its significance in the history of American Modern Dance, its technical difficulty, and its unique, engaging style that connects with audiences. Ms. Huber will restage the work during a week-long residency in January 2019. Ms. Lesley Brasseur Rodgers, Valencia Dance Programs Artistic Director, will collaborate with Ms. Huber to restage the work.	$35,270	Yes

The goal of this project is to enhance the teaching and learning of humanities at Valencia College. The project will build capacity in the fields of AA-MEH and provide faculty and students greater interactions with AA-MEH topic areas. This project provides an opportunity for faculty to engage in a year-long significant academic experience in African-American (cohort 1) or Middle Eastern (cohort 2) humanities with scholars in their respective fields. The year-long seminars will provide an in-depth study into the history, literature, arts, and current scholarship and trends in the fields of AA-MEH culminating in a weeklong immersion trip to sites of AA-MEH significance.	$99,969	NA

This initiative will allow Valencia College to provide fellowship opportunities for undergraduate students, including those from underrepresented and economically-disadvantaged groups. The project will achieve the following objectives: Objective 1: Enrich student learning related to FANH sciences through the development and implementation of experiential learning activities in the US and abroad; and Objective 2: Prepare a diverse, globally engaged FANH sciences workforce by increasing participation of underrepresented minority students. This project will develop two experiential learning activities for Fellows, and will support students to develop mentoring relationships with faculty. The first experiential learning activity focuses on leadership development and early career exploration. The second experiential learning activity is a short-term study abroad trip to participate in research activities alongside faculty mentors.	$299,039	NA
