Passage

Many families have traditions passed down from person to person. It could be something simple or something more detailed.

Assignment

Select one tradition you have in your family and how this tradition has affected you.

You need to type 300-600 words on a subject that is chosen by the computer.

My family has many traditions that are passed down from person to person. One tradition I enjoy the most is passing along a very old blanket to new babies when they are born. My family has a blanket that was made many many years ago by my ancestors. Every time there is a new baby in the family, the person with the blanket puts their baby's name on the blanket, wraps it up, writes a special note and gives it to the new family with a baby. This tradition has taught me the importance of new family members and of keeping the traditions of those who came before me. I received this blanket when I was a baby and had pictures with it too.

My cousin also has pictures with the same blanket I had when I was a baby. It is very important to our family that we stay connected with this type of tradition. When I am a parent, I hope that this tradition is still being used in my family to…
