

Service Learning is reciprocal, meaning that you help your community but at the same time you benefit from the service. Your post service assignment will demonstrate the reciprocity. The Post Service Assignment can be in the form of a paper, poster or infographic, or formal presentation. Your assignments should address the following components:

1. What did you contribute to the community partner and its clients (service)?
 - Discuss you role with the community partner.
 - Describe at least four specific ways that you enhanced the community partner, the lives of the clients, or others in the community. Some partner-reported benefits may include enhanced organizational capacity, fresh energy and new ideas, and access to academic expertise (FL CC, 2015).

2. What did you receive (learning)?
 - Write about what you learned about the community partner, its clients, the related issues, or about life in general. Address how this experience has helped you feel connected to the culture of the surrounding community.
 - Use the five outcomes below to explain what you learned about
 - Yourself
 - Your future profession
 - Real-world application of classroom learning
 - Your role in the community
 - Leadership/problem solving
 - How will this experience influence your future?

Students are encouraged to present their final assignment to their faculty mentor and community agency contact at the end of the semester.
